of Ohr Torah.

MONDAY, MAY 19, 2025

7:00 pm – 10:30 pm

Aventura Skybar Rooftop

2420 N.E. Miami Gardens
Drive, Suite 501

Aventura, FL 33180

Dear Friends,

We are honored to invite you to our unique evening that combines art, generosity, and commitment to the future of our children at Ohr Torah School in Toulouse.

Join us for an exceptional Art Auction in support of the Ohr Torah School, led by the devoted Rabbi Yaakov Monsonego, Director of the school, and her spouse Yaffa Monsonego.

Enjoy a cocktail dinner in a refined musical atmosphere, with the special participation of the artist Jay, with a powerful artistic and human experiences supporting a school that is far more than an educational institution: a true home of learning, and shared values for hundreds of children.

Our shared goal for this evening is ambitious yet essential: to raise $80,000 to help cover the school's fundamental needs—boarding, tuition, and security.

You can take part in this mission by acquiring one of the art pieces generously donated by committed artists, or by funding a student's annual expenses, fully or partially.

Each piece presented in this catalog has been gifted by artists or galleries.

You will find in the catalogue the starting bid price for each art piece, and their market value.

Please contact us if you wish to secure a piece of art before the event.

Thank you for being part of this beautiful human journey.
Together, let's make Ohr Torah shine. With our heartfelt gratitude,

The Miami Ohr Torah Team

FRED ALLARD

is a contemporary French artist born in Nice.

He became known for his iconic sculptures, snapshots of modern society encased in plexiglass.

Blending art and fashion, he reinterprets symbols of luxury and pop culture.

His work is exhibited in many international galleries.

Fred Allard freezes movement and the ephemeral in blocks of plexiglass, capturing everyday objects—bags, sneakers, banknotes—as symbols of our time.

He questions the codes of consumption, fashion, and identity by turning these objects into timeless artworks.

His style, both raw and refined, explores the tension between art, design, and urban culture.

CAROLE BENICHO

is an experienced French painter and sculptor with national exposure. Her style switches from Street Art to Pop Art and back again, with touches of Cubism dotted throughout her vibrant visual expressions. Using elements of pop culture to create parody she ultimately achieves an aesthetic that is at once surprising and familiar.

Through a reimagined Pop Art aesthetic, Carole Benichou explores symbols, clichés, and the emotions that define our times. Her work draws on a strong visual language—collages, bright colors, recurring patterns, and image appropriation. She blends modern myths with everyday scenes, adding touches of irony and tenderness. Her art invites viewers to see the world differently—with both clarity and playfulness, somewhere between gentle critique and joyful celebration.

ScimoC

Long inspired by Pop Art culture, cities, and comics, she has created several collections exhibited in national galleries and museums, focusing on the themes of New York and comics. She has depicted various heroes and celebrities from her childhood, combining geometry and intense colors in an organized layout from which characters emerge.

Imbued with curiosity and constant research, sensitive to light, color, and materials, ScimoC has used a variety of mediums such as oil, ink, pastels, and Posca, as well as textures such as collage and resin, on canvas, wood, and aluminum. In her new collection, she now works with acrylics, applying layers upon layers to achieve a harmonious yet powerful result, whose contrasts capture the eye for an intense experience in this maelstrom of color.

ZED

Since childhood, ZED has always sculpted bodies, first in sand and then in precious wood, which has led to his success and his worldwide ranking at Artprice, the world leader in artist valuations.

In 2009, he recovered scraps of Plexiglas and launched Flexo, which has become a universal work over the past 10 years.

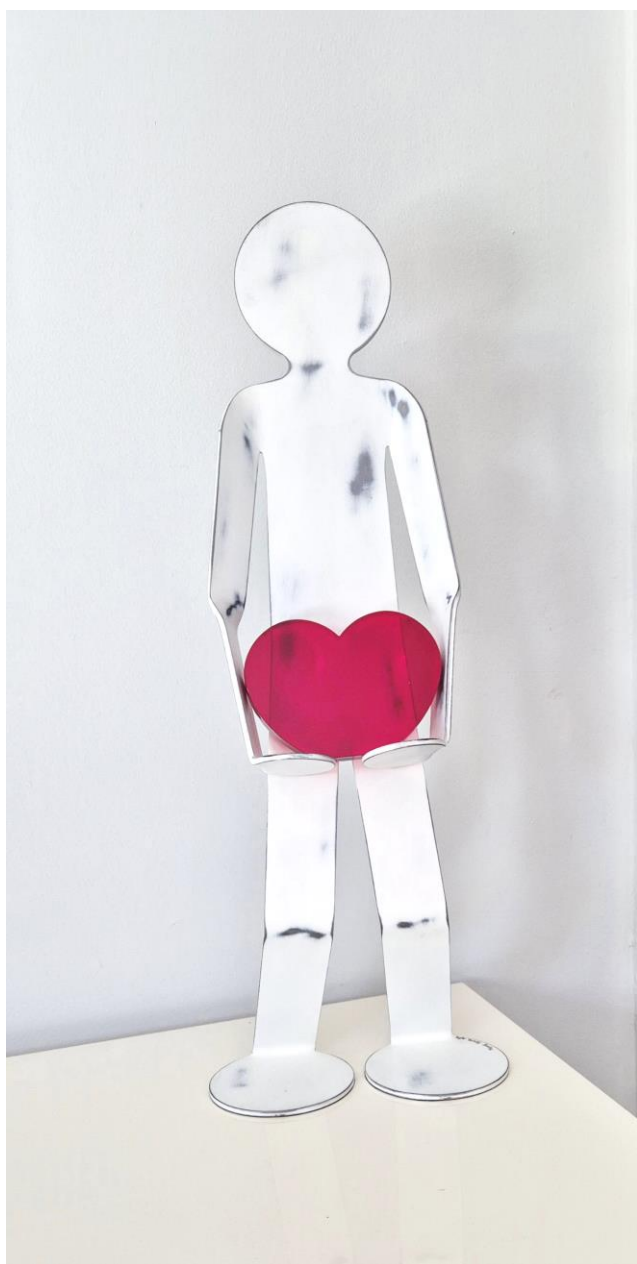

While the artist likes to say "I sculpt therefore I am" as he retreats to his studio nestled among olive trees in the Italian Abruzzo region, he sculpts as he is.

ZED's art reflects his image: joyful, sincere, and profound.

His work exudes a joy and a benevolent energy that testify to the love of life and optimism that guide his daily life.

"What gives me the greatest pleasure is being described as a popular artist."

Isa K

incarne une démarche artistique moins lisse qu'il n'y paraît. Signer d'une seule lettre, la moins usitée de l'alphabet français, n'est pas qu'un simple et élégant raccourci patronymique c'est, peut-être, l'affirmation discrète et fière de racines enfouies. La création artistique devient alors le résultat tangible d'une perpétuelle quête identitaire.

Choisir des Vespa comme sujets créatifs ? Depuis Andy Warhol, plusieurs artistes ont décliné, détourné, sacralisé ces accessoires emblématiques de notre société post-moderne. Mais, quand la déclinaison du sujet devient système, l'art n'est plus qu'illustration plaisante.

Or, les Vespa ici symbolisent la Dolce Vita, Vespa qui ont fédéré des groupes, certainement jusqu'à l'euphorie.

Derrière un simple K, signature prudente et pudique, on peut cacher beaucoup d'émotions ...

Mr Cute

is a duo of brothers from Rennes, France, trained in art and communication. In 2015, the diagnosis of a rare disease in one of them led them to fully dedicate themselves to art.

Their work, influenced by pop art and street art, playfully and provocatively revisits iconic figures from an entire generation. Their signature: giant slides blending screen printing, stenciling, and collage.

Their work is driven by an urgency to live fully. Through nostalgic yet socially engaged creations, they explore themes of time and social injustice. Their series of giant slides pays tribute to icons of the '70s and '80s, while their “uchronias” imagine alternate realities—such as the hypothetical marriage of Marilyn Monroe and John F. Kennedy.

Deeply committed, they also speak out against violence towards women, support research on rare diseases and also generously support Ohr Torah School.

YouNs

Is an active contemporary artist since 2015 and he is a must-see for Pop Art enthusiasts.

Using lenticular art and augmented reality, YouNs merges the real and the digital. The combination of these two techniques brings to life experiential, sensitive, and cultivated works.

"I am a digital artist."

While lenticular art may seem virtual, it is in fact very real. It is at the heart of this border separating these two worlds that YouNs found its inspiration.

"LENTICULAR EFFECT"

Lenticular flip art offers a unique visual experience: as you shift your viewing angle, the image transforms to reveal multiple visuals. With no screens or digital effects, the artwork comes to life before your eyes, instantly capturing attention through its mesmerizing motion. A true dialogue between art and the viewer works with children to introduce them to art and the exploration of material.

Her artistic universe is very colored. She essentially uses pigments she decorates with different materials like paper, fabric, metal, lace...

She's very colored world, with her characters a little naïve and fragile, with a lost look, produces a great emotion, an explosion of life, sincerity and tenderness. Using pigments, acrylic paints, the artist produces explosive works animated by characters with naïve and tender looks, propelling an overwhelming emotion.

"....if tomorrow the world were beautiful
....if tomorrow the world were a mixture
....if tomorrow the world saw me through my eyes ...
if tomorrow the world remained a child if tomorrow the world invited us to discover our imaginative side."

VICTOR VASARELY

Victor Vasarely (1906–1997) was a French-Hungarian artist considered the father of Op Art. Trained at the Bauhaus in Budapest; he moved to Paris in 1930. His work focused on visual illusion, geometric forms, and color. He created an accessible, modular art often integrated into architecture and design. His work merges mathematical precision with visual impact.

Vasarely developed a visual language based on geometry, aiming to create optical vibrations in the viewer. By combining simple shapes with vivid colors, he explored effects of motion, depth, and transformation. He saw art as a game of perception—democratic and reproducible—and introduced the idea of “kinetic art” in which the eye becomes an active participant.
